

Elizabeth Newton is a Social and Business Psychologist who graduated with her Ph.D. from Stanford University. A native of Vancouver, she consults with companies across Canada and the U.S. She also teaches MBA and Executive courses at the Sauder School of Business @ UBC.

Dr. Newton's focus is on Leadership Development. She specializes in coaching Senior Executive Teams.

She has also developed and taught a broad range of workshops with topics ranging from Communication to Entrepreneurial Leadership, Executive Team-Building and Creativity.

Dr. Newton is a writer whose columns have been featured in magazines and papers such as the Globe & Mail, the Vancouver Sun, the Montreal Gazette and Readers Digest.

Elizabeth is actively involved in the Arts. She earned her A.R.C.T. in Piano Performance and is particularly dedicated to her ongoing volunteer work as Chair of the Advisory Committee for the Sarah McLachlan Music Outreach Program – an Arts Umbrella Project.