Discover the UBC Bachelor + Master of Management Dual Degree

One program. Two degrees.
From the start of the program at UBC, you take business courses that count towards both your Master of Management degree and your undergraduate studies. After graduating with your primary undergraduate degree, you focus on Master of Management courses for six months before graduating with a Master’s degree from UBC Sauder’s Robert H. Lee Graduate School.

Learn from diverse classmates.
You will be in the unique position of studying with top students from across various disciplines. Imagine collaborating on a business plan project with a Math major who has stellar quantitative skills, getting inspired by the creative genius of a Fine Arts student, and learning from the analytical mind of a Psychology major. This will be your learning environment from day one of the program.

Become career-ready.
UBC Sauder is here to help you discover your career potential. From your entry into the program until graduation, we provide career development support, including effective networking, resume writing, personal and professional development, job search techniques, and mock interview practice.

“By doing my UBC BSc at the same time as a UBC MM, I learned how to apply my science knowledge to the area of management consulting I was interested in. It was a perfect fit for the combination of my science background and business education.”

Gain Valuable Business Skills

Along with an immersive business education, the UBC B+MM Dual Degree gives you the skills you need to gain a competitive edge in the job market. Before you even graduate, you will be building up your resume with practical opportunities that give you experience to build a great career.

Get Consulting Experience on Your Resume

UBC B+MM Dual Degree students participate in the Community Business Project which gives you the opportunity to gain consulting experience before graduating. You will apply your new skills to solve business problems for a not-for-profit organization or social enterprise.

Projects cover a wide range of topics. Past projects have included developing business plans and feasibility studies, recruitment and retention strategies or development initiatives. Participating organizations that students have worked with include:

“The Community Business Project at UBC Sauder was a form of deep experiential learning. Through my project with MOSAIC BC as my team’s Client Liaison, I gained hands-on consulting experience in a client-facing role, giving me stories to tell in interviews, and preparing me for my current role where I educate and advise small business owners.”

How it Works

During your undergraduate journey, you work on your non-business undergraduate degree while taking commerce courses. The six commerce courses you take will count towards both your Bachelor’s degree and your Master of Management. After finishing your undergraduate degree, you will focus on Master of Management courses for six months, and you will graduate with both a Bachelor’s and a world-ranked Master’s degree from UBC Sauder’s Robert H. Lee Graduate School. For more information about the program structure, please visit sauder.ubc.ca/bmm
